Launchpad Rules

All attendees, sponsors, partners, volunteers and staff at our launchpad event are required to comply with the following code of conduct, rules, and regulations. Organizers will enforce this code throughout the journey. We expect cooperation from all participants to ensure a safe environment for everybody.

Code of Conduct

Launchpad is dedicated to providing a harassment-free experience for everyone, regardless of gender, gender identity and expression, age, sexual orientation, disability, physical appearance, body size, race, ethnicity, nationality, religion, previous launchpad event attendance or computing experience (or lack of any of the aforementioned). We do not tolerate harassment of launchpad event participants in any form. Sexual language and imagery is not appropriate at any launchpad event venue, including hacks, talks, workshops, parties, social media and other online media. Launchpad event participants violating these rules may be sanctioned or expelled from the launchpad event at the discretion of the event organizers or leadership board.

Time & Place

Launchpad starts at 6pm on Friday, September 11, 2020. We are not responsible for you outside of our walls. In fact, even within our walls, by being here you agree to release Stevens Institute of Technology from all liability relating to injuries that may occur in the duration of this launchpad event.

Teams

Working with people is the cornerstone to building something of massive importance. We are confident in the ability of our participants, and so should you be. You are free to work with anyone at the event for the duration of this weekend, and beyond.

Submission Requirements

Teams are required to submit all material pertaining to the retreat on Google drive or alternative chosen by the organizers. This includes: slides, assets, links to live projects, and final presentations. Projects that blatantly disregard the proposed theme may be ineligible for launchpad participation going forward. All projects must be submitted by 2 pm on Sunday the 13th. Presentations are required to be eligible for continued participation and must meet the length and other specifications set by the organizers.

Ownership

All teams retain full ownership of what they create during the launchpad event. Launchpad is here to help entrepreneurs realize their dreams, not destroy them. We do retain the right to display what you build for the purpose of advertisement and/or fundraising for future launchpad events. This includes all types of media, both print and not.

Confidentiality

Our core conviction is that ideas alone are useless until executed upon with skill, passion and sustained effort. Execution is worth millions -- ideas alone, not so much. However, by being here, you acknowledge that you may be routinely exposed to proprietary ideas and/or technology, some of which could be already patented or patent-pending. You also acknowledge that you assume the shared responsibility of not needlessly divulging ideas you come across outside the Launchpad community. We share ideas in good faith and do not require anyone to sign non-disclosure agreements. Likewise, we will also not sign non-disclosure agreements with anyone just to hear out their ideas.

Be Awesome & Have Fun

Meet new people, get creative, and have a good time. Getting something meaningful done within such a short amount of time can be stressful, but we'd like to encourage everyone to take a break every now and then to relax and enjoy the event.

Attendees violating these rules, regulations, and code of conduct may be asked to leave the launchpad event at the sole discretion of the launchpad event organizers. Thank you for helping make this a welcoming, friendly event for all.
